Young people are already successfully fighting for a clean energy future on their campuses and in their communities. Power Vote is a non-partisan campaign to engage millions more in demanding real solutions to global warming like wind and solar power, efficient buildings and sustainable transportation. These solutions will not only reduce harmful global warming pollution, but will create millions of new jobs and revitalize our economy.

GET YOUR POWER VOTE ON

1. Go to PowerVote.org to sign the pledge, register to vote, get connected to other young people in your area, and share resources that will help you take action locally.
2. Encourage all your friends to sign the Power Vote pledge and VOTE on November 4.
3. Make clean energy a top issue in this election. Plan a Power Vote party, publish a letter in your local paper and let candidates know you want good jobs and clean energy at every opportunity. Share your stories and victories on our blog, ItsGettingHotinHere.org.
4. Stay involved after the election to help win the fight to turn clean energy promises into reality. Join thousands of young leaders at Power Shift '09 in Washington, D.C. from Feb. 27 to March 2 during the first 100 days of the new administration. Check out powervote.org for updates.
